The Quest

To stand straight; to walk forward

To listen; to learn to go farther

To move always with direction

To approach the beginning,

To gain momentum,

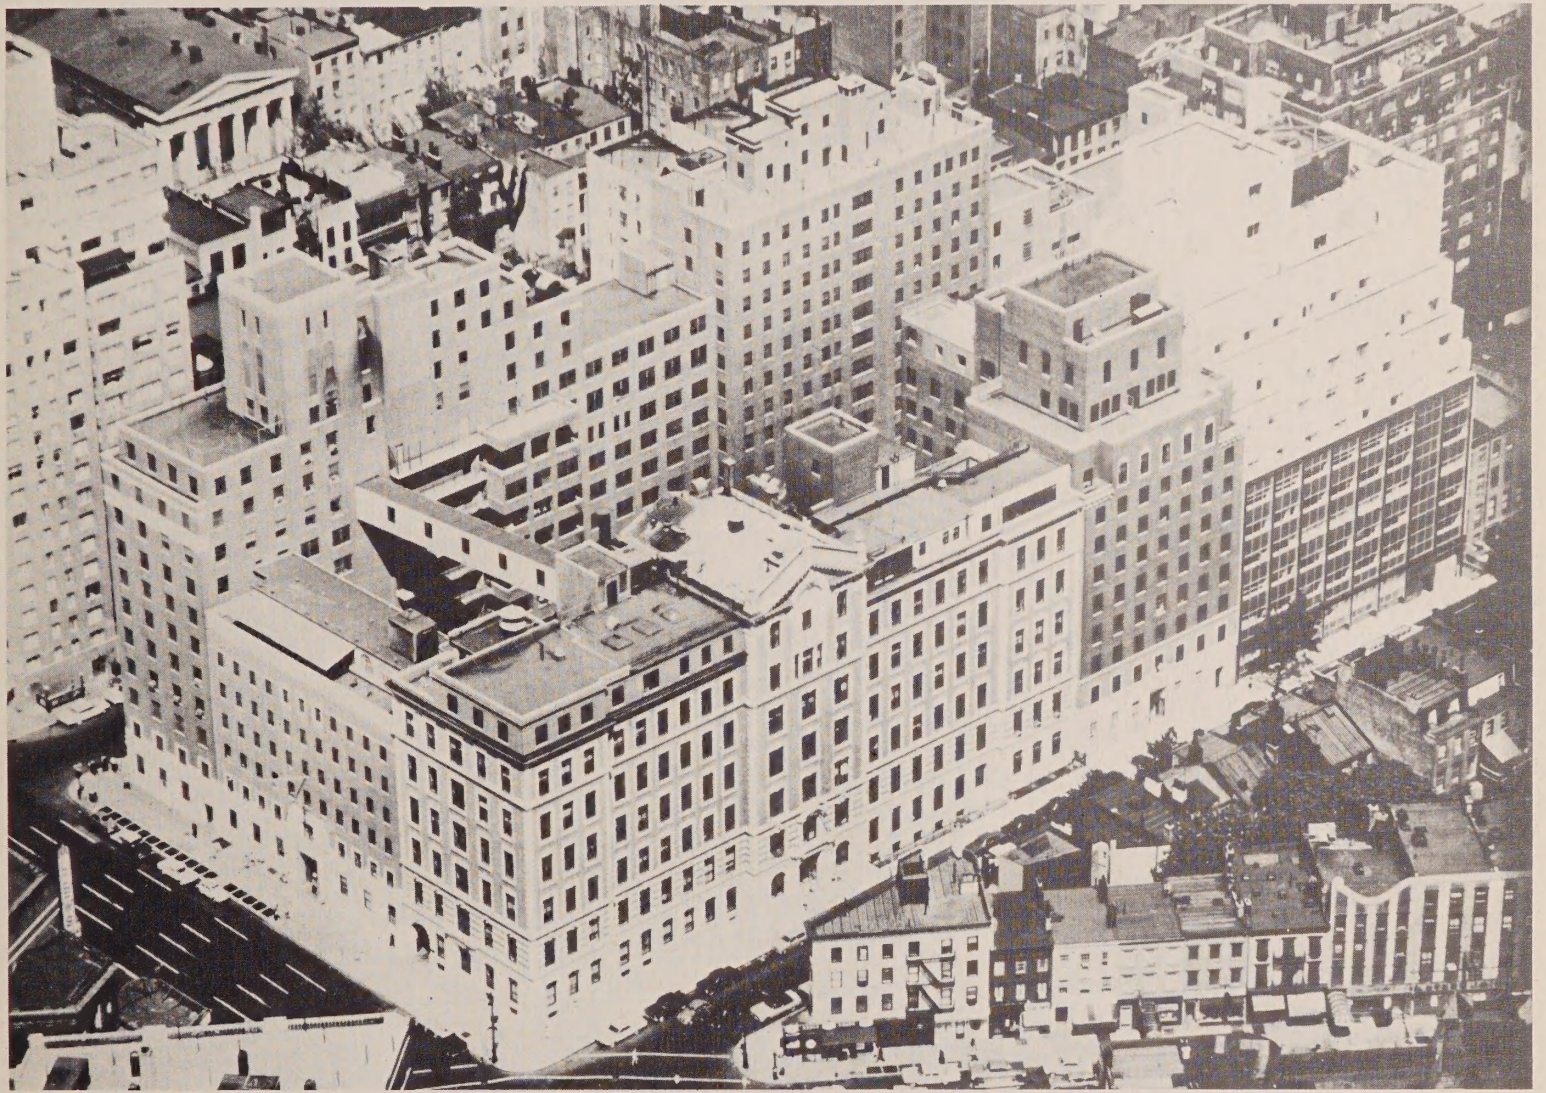

To be a nurse

This is my quest.

Dedication . . .

No we didn't notice, not always
And now it's our turn for good-byes
We can remember our yesterdays
But others will reach for tomorrow.
Others will bring together endless pieces
 of an endless pattern;
The pattern we have experienced the newness of Probies
 the exuberance of Juniors
 the assurance of Seniors.

In living this pattern
It has molded our character and
 given our lives meaning;
Meaning, to reach out and meet the world
 as nurses.

Time spends and stores and shapes our lives
 as we partially fulfill our quest.
And as we leave we pass this quest on to others,
To you, future students
We dedicate our 1967 VINCENTIAN.

. . . to Future Students

The Quest

An unending search,

sculptured by the hands of life

strengthened by the heart of a woman—

A countless effort throughout seventy-five years

An effort rewarded through dedication and teaching

A time has passed, a time in which we played

an integral part

It is these yesterdays that our present

deeds gather character and definition

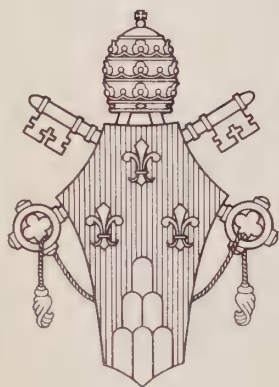

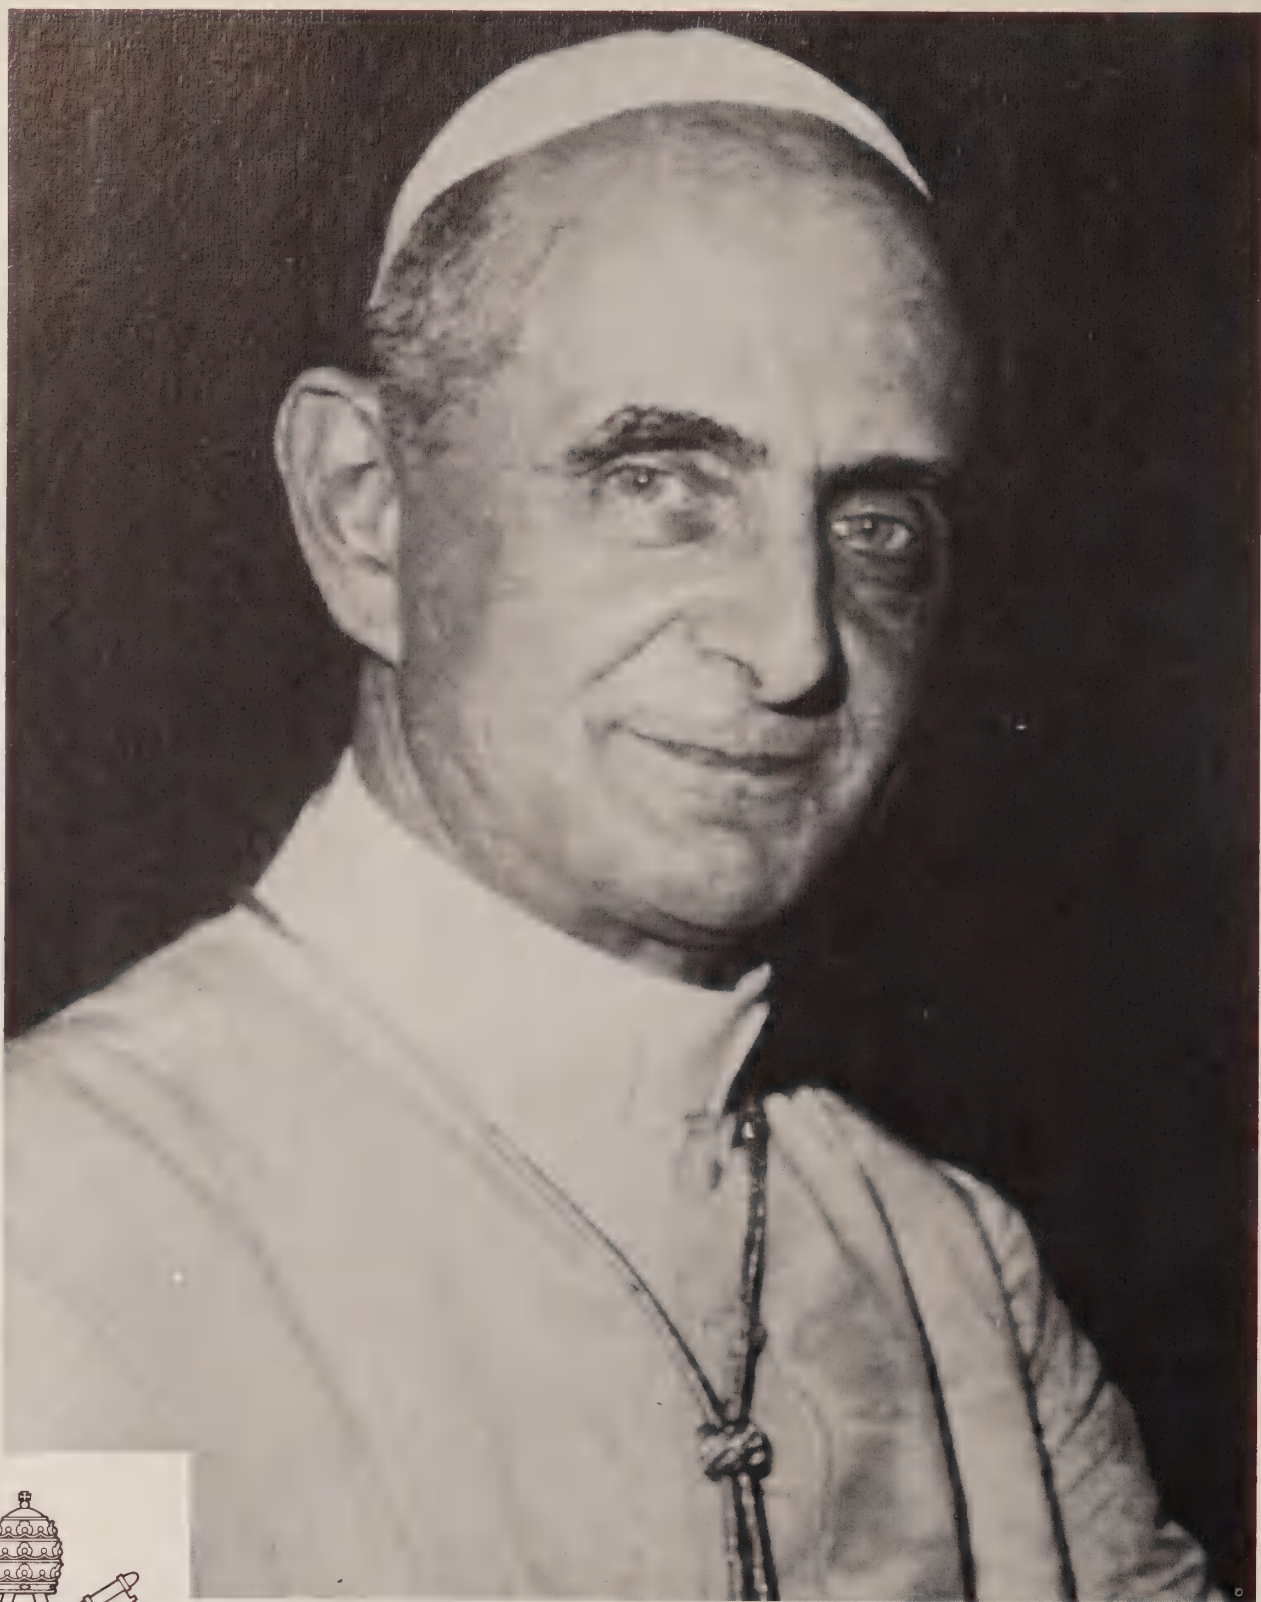

We now emerge, women with an ideal

cognizant of our quest

Prepared to increase our wisdom and achieve

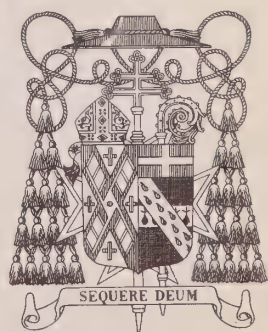

deeper maturity.

MISS KATHERINE ANNE SANBORN
Foundress of St. Vincent's Hospital School of Nursing 1892

A Nurses Training School under the direction of Miss Katherine Anne Sanborn, a graduate of the New York Hospital Training School, was opened in 1892. A woman of unusual capability, Miss Sanborn remained as the head of St. Vincent's Hospital School of Nursing for forty-two years.

The teaching staff of the Training School consisted of Miss Sanborn, the Sisters in charge of the various halls and resident physicians and surgeons. Lectures and demonstrations were given in a parlor or dormitory, since there were no classrooms or laboratory facilities. The students were on twelve hour duty day or night, and most of the instruction was necessarily given at the bedside of the patient. The first graduation was held in Carnegie Hall in May 1895. Archbishop Corrigan presided to present diplomas to the first five nurses of St. Vincent's School of Nursing.

Miss Katherine Sanborn retired from the School of Nursing in 1934. At the time of her resignation the school numbered 1,063 graduates, and an enrollment of 181 students. Her inspired leadership of 42 years is part of the heritage and history of the hospital.

Miss Sanborn as Director of St. Vincent's Hospital School of Nursing, poses with graduating class.

1967 A Diamond Jubilee

June 12, 1967

MY DEAR GRADUATES:

It is with grateful and joyous pride that I extend my loving congratulations to you. You are honored with the distinction of graduating during the Diamond Jubilee year. This is a singular privilege and an occasion that unites the hearts of your parents and friends with admiring love and gratitude.

When you entered the School of Nursing in September, 1964, your quest was to see this day fulfilled with all its bright promises. Today is now a reality. You must have had a spirit of adventure to make the journey. It was an unknown land, a mystery that you knew would unfold its pages and reveal many of the sorrows and joys that fill the life of man in his journey to God. You were courageous to travel this road. The suffering you witnessed many times and the sorrow you shared must have been overwhelming. You saw that illness and death are the leveler of mankind. You also experienced the marvel of God's creative power, and you sensed the inexpressable joy when a soul blinded with pain, responded with hope and trust to your loving kindness.

Today a new quest is before you, another unknown land. You represent a school with a heritage of 75 years. With God's grace you will meet the challenges which our 4,200 graduates have accepted. My prayer for you at this time, has been my daily prayer for you, that you grow in God's love daily and accept His will in your life. I ask Him to point the way to the fulfillment of your Eternal Quest, salvation and holiness. You and I must strive for this together, near or apart, we will unite through prayer in the bond of loving charity.

Lovingly in Christ,
Sister Marian Catherine

Just as a diamond is polished to perfecton, our yearbook was a consistant effort on the part of many people. We, the editors and staff of the 1967 Vincentian realize that our Diamond Jubilee Edition would not have been possible without the assistance and encouragement of Sister Richard Maureen. We are grateful to her and wish to thank her at this time for helping to make this year's Vincentian possible.

Student Nurses Association

The St. Vincent's Chapter of SNANYS Area 8.

BEING through COMMITMENT. Being a member of a profession can carry a certain privilege for you. It can enhance that innate potential of your individuality so that your actions do not influence only those around you but have a far-reaching effect. Are you ready to accept this challenge? You should be—for you are the future of nursing.

In order to help you meet this constantly growing challenge the Student Nurses Association at St. Vincent's has been formed. It is a pre-professional organization designed to help you prepare for and meet your own needs and those of your profession.

During the past year, the members of the Association have attended various meetings and conventions to keep themselves aware of the current trends in nursing and helped by adding their own criticisms and ideas. Informative and interesting speakers have been asked to attend meetings and a Hootenany was held in the spring to raise funds to send girls to the National Student Nurses Convention.

As nursing progresses, we too as students and future graduates must progress. Our main goal this year has been to move ahead through understanding and commitment and not remain stagnant.

SNANYS members check in at the convention at the Commodore Hotel.

Our most enthusiastic SNANYS member, Peggy Mankiewich, poses for the camera.

Margaret Mankiewich, Area 8 Nominating Committee Chairman.

Just A Yearbook It Isn't

Please People,

Don't go calling our Vincentian just a yearbook. The Vincentian is our yearbook, and no one else's yearbook is quite like this one.

We design it special, and write it special, and handle it special. We examine every inch of it. We measure the pictures. We sort them. We check them for quality and content, and ump-teen finicky little things you'd probably never even notice.

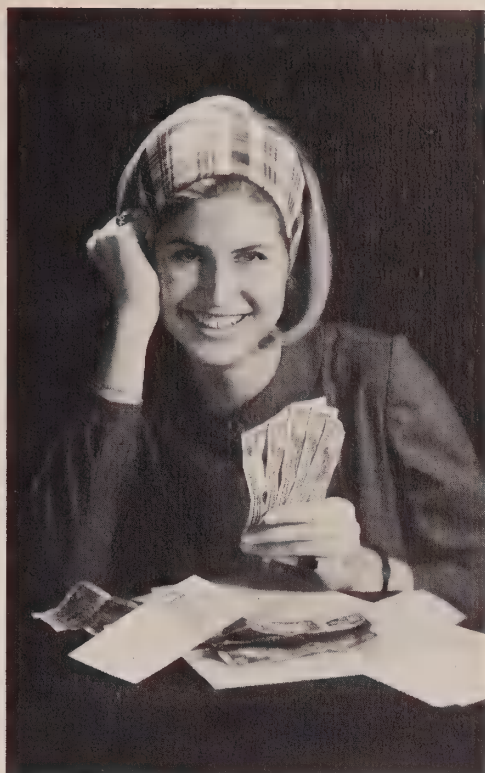

It goes through a lot to wear the Vincentian title. It earned its' name. As for other yearbooks, o'kay, they're just yearbooks.

The Editors and Staff of the 1967 Vincentian hope you enjoy your yearbook as much as we enjoyed preparing it for you.

"Blue Notes" is our official school newspaper which is printed for the benefit of the students of St. Vincent's and students of other nursing schools on our mailing list. It is published for the purpose of reflecting loyalty and pride in the school, sharing such feelings with others, and giving the students a chance to show creative talent in literature and art. Published quarterly, it contains articles pertaining to nursing and non-nursing activities alike.

Epilogue

"This is my quest to follow that star."

*The past is but the beginning and all that is and has been
is but the twilight of the dawn*

*A day will come when beings who are now latent in our thoughts
shall stand upon this earth
as one stands upon a footstool
and shall laugh
and reach their hands among the stars.*

In Appreciation

Assistance and encouragement were obtained from many people for the 1967 Vincentian. At this time, we would like to extend a special thank you to our moderator, Sister Richard Maureen, Mr. Frank Ball, Jr., our publisher, Mr. Albert Guida, our photographer, and especially the girls who gave of their time so generously.

Words by Joe Darion from "The Impossible Dream" from the musical play, "Man Of La Mancha". (C) 1965 by Helena Music Corp., Andrew Scott, Inc. and Sam Fox Publishing Company, Inc. By special Permission have been used in this publication.
